Cover Letter Writing

A cover letter is a marketing tool intended to generate interest in you and get the reader excited about reviewing your accompanying resume. The cover letter should succinctly articulate your interest and enthusiasm for both the company and specific position, and demonstrates how your unique background, skills and experiences make you an excellent fit for both the position and organization to which you are applying.

General Tips

➢ Make connections between what is on your resume and the position requirements; don’t just repeat what’s on your resume.
  o Describe specific accomplishments, experiences and skills that demonstrate how you fit the position. Provide examples to support claims; doing so strengthens your candidacy.
  o Cite examples from the most relevant areas of your background, including your internship or employment experience, leadership roles, extra-curricular activities and coursework.

➢ Prepare a unique letter for each position.
  o Nothing looks worse than a generic cover letter; make sure your cover letter highlights skill sets and credentials consistent with those of the job posting.
  o Customize the employer’s information on each individual letter; specify why you are interested in working in this position at this company.

➢ Address each cover letter to the appropriate person.
  o Use “Dear Mr. or Ms. Last Name”. Do not use phrases such as “To whom it may concern” or “Dear Sir or Madam”. If the name is unisex (e.g., Pat Brown), use “Dear First & Last Name”.
  o Call the Human Resources office or Hiring Manager of each organization to find out to whom you should be addressing your letter.
  o If you cannot identify the appropriate person, address your cover letter to “Hiring Manager” or “Human Resources Director”.

➢ Keep a copy of every letter you submit.
  o Designate a folder on your computer to save each cover letter you send out. Use the dates on each cover letter as a reference.
  o If you do not hear from the employer within two weeks, follow up on the status of your application.

➢ Make it perfect.
  o Typographical errors, misspellings and poor word choice will earn your cover letter and resume a one-way ticket to the “no pile”.
  o Have someone proofread your letter before sending it out.

➢ Enthusiasm Sells.
  o Employers want candidates who want to work for them. Show them that you’ve researched their organization and make a convincing case for why you want to work for them.
  o Be professional and courteous, but let your personality come through.

Formatting Tips

➢ Use 8¼” X 11” quality bond paper – the same kind you used for your resume.
➢ Keep it to one page, single spaced.
➢ Use 10-12 point font and choose the same style you chose for your resume.
➢ Remember to sign your name at the bottom of each hard copy letter you submit.
➢ Use a Block Style Format, and align names, dates and paragraphs along the left-hand margin.
➢ Use 1” margins all around the page.

Street Address
City, ST Zip

Dear Mr./Ms. Last Name of Contact:

Your opening paragraph tells why you are writing and notes where you learned about the position or if someone referred you. When referring to the position, use the title used by the employer. If someone referred you and no specific title is known, be as specific as possible about the kind of position for which you are applying. Do some research on the organization so that you can state your genuine interest in this particular employer and why it is a good fit for you, not how it will help you.

Your middle paragraph(s) should highlight examples that demonstrate your relevant experience, background, and/or coursework that will show the reader why she/he should consider you as a candidate. Be sure to connect your experiences and/or education to the position description. By using examples, show the employer that you have the necessary experience they seek.

You could include another paragraph detailing additional experience that will demonstrate or connect your background with the position. For a concluding sentence, summarize the skills and personal traits that you would bring to the job for which you are applying. Also, remember that the reader will view your letter as an example of your writing skills.

In your closing paragraph, reiterate your interest in the position, thank the employer for his/her consideration, provide your contact information, and indicate the follow-up action. State what you want the recipient of the letter to do next (such as contacting you to further discuss the available position) or what you will do next (such as calling to follow-up on the status of your application). Only say you are going to follow up if you have the contact information to do so.

Sincerely,

When writing a cover letter, you want to market your experiences, background and skill set to the specific position to which you're applying. Depending on the position, you may pull from different areas of your academic, work, extracurricular, and athletic experiences that better target the skill sets and credentials most pertinent to the specific job or internship to which you’re applying. Below is a sample internship description for a position at Ticketmaster. Notice how Wesley, the student whose cover letter appears on the following page, draws a clear link between the skills/experiences detailed in the job description and his own academic background, skill set and campus involvement. In doing so, Wesley makes a clear case for his candidacy.

Dear Ms. Leiva:

I’m writing to apply for the Marketing/Promotions Intern position at Ticketmaster, which I learned about through the Becker Career Center at Union College. After reviewing the position description and researching Ticketmaster, I believe that my skills and experience make me an excellent candidate.

As a sophomore at Union College, I have undertaken a number of courses and extra-curricular engagements that prepared me for this internship. The study of economics has helped develop my research, analytical and creative thinking skills, as it has allowed me to contemplate the relationships between human behavior and a variety of environmental and cultural factors. As part of my sophomore research project, I am currently researching how companies effectively utilize branding strategies and catchy logos to increase their client base and better capture their target markets. I believe this on-going analysis of corporate markets and the knowledge I am gaining regarding effective marketing strategies will directly benefit the Marketing/Promotions department.

I’ve complemented my academic background with strong extra-curricular involvement. As Publicity and Promotions Co-Chair for U-Program, I oversaw and implemented a marketing plan for campus concerts, comedic performances and novelty acts. This required strong teamwork, organizational and interpersonal abilities as I interfaced with campus administrators, student organizations and other U-Program members in executing the marketing plan.

I believe I would be a strong asset to the Marketing/Promotions team at Ticketmaster and would greatly appreciate the opportunity to further discuss my qualifications with you. I can be reached at 518-333-6565 or MantootW@union.edu. Thank you for your consideration and I look forward to your reply.

Sincerely,

Wesley Mantooth

Elliott Rosen
Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp

Dear Mr. Rosen:

Please accept this letter and the attached resume as my application for the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation Engineer position. This is in response to a job posting from the Becker Career Center at Union College. As a mechanical engineering student, I am interested in joining a company where my analytical and design skills could be put to use. As an industry-leading energy and technology company, Central Hudson seems to be the perfect match.

Recently, I took a thermal fluid/systems design course, with a focus on energy, where I worked on design projects with three team members. We designed a heat recovery system for a firm to use to exhaust gases to pre-heat cold, incoming air and save on electricity costs. In addition to analyzing the design and energy requirements, we performed an economic analysis. Currently, I am working with a team of eight students to design a robot to shoot darts, simulating a human-like motion. These courses not only transformed my design perspective and ideas, but also taught me how to work effectively in teams.

In the summer of 2014, I received a Davis Peace project grant of $10,000, to use on a project I identified, lead and implemented. I gained valuable leadership skills while overseeing a team of volunteers, setting goals, planning daily schedules, and collaborating with an NGO. Among many extracurricular activities, I currently tutor other Union students in physics, math, and engineering. This position has enabled me to sharpen my communication skills, as I must constantly seek the most effective way to teach concepts to students with varying levels of skills and comprehension.

I am very interested in the Engineer position at Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, and believe that I possess the skills and experience necessary to succeed in this role. I look forward to discussing my qualifications with you in greater detail. I can be reached at 518-123-4567, or swiftt@union.edu. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Taylor Swift

Dear Mr. Drummer:

Please accept this letter and attached resume in response to the Journalism Internship recently posted on your website. Since studying in the Capital District, I have been very impressed by the quality of stories and content of your newspaper, and believe my educational background and journalism experience could be of use to your organization.

As a contributing writer to the Newstime Daily high school newspaper, I explored issues affecting the school and surrounding community in a thought provoking and engaging weekly opinion article titled “Plant This”. This experience taught me how to effectively research unfamiliar topic areas, cite and quote sources, write to specific word lengths (ranging from 150 - 600 words), and construct strong stories.

As a rising junior at Union College majoring in English my work experiences and academic coursework have further refined skills and abilities that would assist me as a Journalism Intern. Through an intensive sophomore research seminar, I conducted independent research examining the effects of ethnic identification and societal pressures on world war II German American relief efforts that culminated in a 45 page paper and presentation. This experience further honed my research, analytical, writing, and presentation skills. Working as Head Counselor at Camp Cedarbrook I developed strong teamwork and communication skills, as this position required me supervise a staff of eight organizing and coordinating activities for 125 campers. I believe the skill sets and personal attributes developed through such experiences would directly benefit the Times Union.

I am very interested in the Journalism Internship, and would appreciate the opportunity to discuss my background and your requirements in greater detail. If you wish to contact me in the meantime, I can be reached at 276.555.0201 or PlantR@union.edu. Thank you for your consideration and I look forward to your reply.

Sincerely,

(Nota: no need to sign if sending through email)
