

PUBLIC HEALTH: A PERSONAL JOURNEY—FROM LOCAL TO GLOBAL

DR. LOC T. LE '84

Dr. Loc T. Le '84 has devoted his life to the prevention of Hepatitis B, particularly among high-risk populations. A gastroenterologist in Baltimore, Md., Dr. Le serves as chairman of the National Task Force on Hepatitis B, which focuses on education, research and intervention among Asian and Pacific Islander populations in the U.S.

A silent killer, Hepatitis B often goes undetected until it's too late. Dr. Le wants to change that through education, research and intervention programs both nationally and internationally.
