FOURTH COURSE POLICY

The annual tuition at Union allows a student to register for three terms taking three courses per term. This allows students to complete the required 36 courses for graduation. In some engineering programs as many as 40 courses may be required and those students are permitted to enroll in 10 courses per year. Under certain circumstances students may be allowed to take a fourth course in a term.

Students who are making satisfactory progress in their program of study are allowed to enroll in one fourth course during an academic year at no extra charge, provided they have a GPA of at least 3.3. These courses can be used to enhance the student's academic experience at Union. All such courses will appear on the transcript and can be used to fulfill program requirements; however, they cannot be used for the purpose of accelerated graduation. (This includes fourth courses taken on a Term Abroad.)

Fourth courses can also be used to make up a deficiency in credits due to withdrawals or failure. A 4th course fee will be charged under these circumstances. Students whose GPA is below 2.5 will need the written permission from Dean Wunderlich before signing up for a fourth course.

ALL students, INCLUDING ENGINEERING STUDENTS, with the exception of Leadership in Medicine (LIM) and Scholar Students, will be required to fill out the "Petition to Enroll in a Fourth Course" form. Forms are available at the Registrar's Office in Silliman Hall or on the web at <http://muse.union.edu/advising/>

CROSS REGISTRATION

Please Note: Union College and *Union Graduate College are two separate Colleges. All graduate level courses taken by Union undergraduates, including Leadership in Medicine and Combined Degree students will be taken through Union Graduate College and will require completion of a special “Union Graduate College” Cross Registration Form. These forms are available in the Registrar’s Office in Silliman Hall.

Cross Registration has been a service of the Member Institutions of the Hudson Mohawk Association since 1970, when the Association was chartered by the New York State Board of Regents. All full time matriculated students at Union are eligible to cross register in courses during the academic year offered at:

Adirondack Community College

Albany College of Pharmacy

The College of Saint Rose

Empire State College

Hudson Valley Community College

Maria College

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

Sage Colleges

Schenectady Community College

Siena College

Skidmore College

Southern Vermont College

SUNY/Albany

*Union Graduate College

The purpose of the cross registration program is to provide students the opportunity to study areas not represented by the offerings of their home college, at no additional tuition charge. In addition to general guidelines, each college has its own set of regulations, regarding cross-registration and students should make themselves aware of these for both their home campus and the campus they are visiting.

For more information contact Drew Lentz, Assistant Registrar (518) 388-6015.

DESCRIPTION OF COURSES NOT IN THE 2015-16 ACADEMIC REGISTER

Includes Revised Course Descriptions

AMU-011 Chamber Music Practicum. J. Cox. The Chamber Music Practicum is designed to provide students with an opportunity to study, rehearse, and perform music written for small ensemble. The Director of Performance will assign duets, trios, quartets, and potentially larger groups based on the enrollment of the course. Vocal and Instrumental students are welcome to join and will be grouped according to skill level. Each chamber group will be assigned repertoire by the Director of Performance and expected to rehearse two hours per week, one of which will be coached by a faculty member.

~~COURSE CANCELLED–AMU-222 American Folk Music in the 20th Century.~~–J. Cox. This course will examine the origins, development, and function of traditional folk music in North America during the 20th Century. Modern American folk music traces its roots through a wide array of cultures and traditions, both Western and non-Western. Beginning with the inherited folk repertoire of an immigrant nation, students will be asked to examine how America’s national identity can be traced through its folk music during a time of great cultural transformation. By using examples of cross-over into pop, rock, country, blues, and classical genres, we will explore the boundaries between the major categories of folk, pop, and art music. Finally we will examine how the recording industry has created an odd marriage of folk and commercialism. Students will be encouraged to sing, compose, and play as they are able in order to bring the class material alive through performance.

CLS-192 Ancient Medicine. P. Singy. This course explores the Greek and Roman roots of Western medicine. How did the Hippocratic writers, Galen, and other ancient physicians understand and treat the ailments of their patients? And what did it mean, in the first place, to be a physician or a patient two millennia ago? All texts will be in English.

ECE-481 Special Topics: Transformer and Inductor Design. M. Treanor. Review of magnetic field equations; Properties of magnetically soft iron; Common configurations (E-I, E-E, ...); Optimum Core Dimensions (window/core areas); Wheeler approximations; Losses; ac resistance; Proximity and Skin effects; Inrush current; leakage inductance (good and bad); Cooling; Interpreting core material data sheets; useful design computer programs from core vendors; Use of EM FEA; Power Electronics Applications.

ECO -122 Judgement and Decision Making (Crossed with PSY-222). C. Chabris. An introduction to the scientific study of judgment and decision making featuring perspectives from cognitive psychology and behavioral economics. Students will learn major theoretical concepts and empirical results from the literature as well as how they apply to real-world issues. Students should also expect to improve their own ability to evaluate evidence and make rational well-informed decisions in their own lives. Prerequisites: PSY-100, PSY-210, or ECO-101.

EGL-099 The Bible: An Introduction. (Crossed with CLS-099). P. Heinegg. This course is a basic survey of the most historically and culturally important book in the world. Actually, the Bible is not a single book, but a complex anthology of many different genres, including history, legend, myth, law, poetry, prophecy, philosophy, and an astonishing variety of religious texts, from passionate prayers to bitter complaints against God, composed over the course of something like a thousand years. In addition to reading the most essential parts of the Old and New Testaments, we will also examine some of the countless ways that the Bible has left an imprint on modern western and American life. No previous acquaintance with the Bible is required.

EGL-304 Jr. Seminar: Gender, Culture, and Cinema. J. Troxell. Over the course of the term, we will investigate the ways in which various media texts transmit and construct gender and sexuality. As we analyze films by such directors as Alfred Hitchcock, Douglas Sirk, Julie Dash, Jennie Livingston, and Jonathan Caouette, we will explore how conceptions of gender and sexuality are facilitated and constrained by legal, medical, and ethical discourses that emerge from specific historical and geographic contexts. In addition to analyzing Hollywood narrative cinema, we will investigate counter-media practices that use form to resist approaches to gender and sexuality found in dominant media platforms and traditions.

EGL-404 Sr. Seminar: Hardy's Women. (Crossed with WGS-495) J. Murphy. According to Thomas Hardy biographer, Claire Tomalin, Hardy's relationship with "strong-minded and intelligent women" began with his mother, Jemima Hand Hardy. Indeed, as Tomalin argues, Jemima and both of Hardy's grandmothers "had flouted the rules on sexual behavior laid down by the Church and gentry." In this course we will trace the way in which Hardy's early encounters with these fundamentally important maternal figures affected his life and work, his two marriages, and his fictional representations of women and male and female relationships. We will employ several theoretical approaches—intersectionality, masculinities studies, queer theory, and affect theory—in our readings of three of Hardy's novels, The Mayor of Casterbridge (1886), Tess of the d'Urbervilles (1891), and Jude the Obscure (1895), as well as a variety of poems Hardy wrote after the death of his first wife, Emma in 1912. We will also consider feminist approaches to film analysis, as we view scenes from various cinematic adaptations of the novels under discussion.

FRN-413 Cinema of Immigration in France. C. Mouflard. This course explores the various representations of immigration in French cinema, from the accounts of the first arrivals of postcolonial immigrants in France to the more recent narratives of multiculturalism. Since the arrival of the first immigrants from the former Maghreb colonies and the birth of the "second generation" in France, both immigrant and non-immigrant filmmakers have portrayed the racial, cultural, gender-based and religious tensions that continue to divide France and to question the republican ideal of integration. Supported by various texts (fiction, news, music, documentaries, critical theory), this course will pose the following overarching questions: who are the filmmakers of immigration in France? What do their techniques and narratives reveal about the concept of a monolithic French identity? How does Edouard Glissant's theory of identité-relation apply to the neo-urban ethnicity that is displayed in contemporary films?

ISC-205 Inequality: Economic and Social Perspectives. T. Meade and E. Motahar. A recent Pew Research Center analysis of wealth finds the gap between America's upper-income and a middle-income family has reached its highest level on record, posing what many view as a threat to the future of our democracy. Although society has always been unequal, why has it reached such historically high proportions now? Why is the world racked with the effects of gross inequality: mass migrations, war, scarcity and famine? This course attempts to answer those questions, taking into account such factors as social class, race/ethnicity, and gender, among others, as contributors to the widening divide between rich and poor people, nations and geographic regions. The course will draw on lectures from scholars in many fields, including literature and the humanities, history, psychology, economics, political, social, scientific and environmental studies. Likewise, students from many disciplines will approach this subject from a variety of perspectives. While no one need come to one conclusion about the reasons for inequality, this course will make us aware of the multiplicity of causes, decisions and circumstances that have enforced hierarchies over time.

LAT-245 Lucan's Bellum Civile. S. Watson. After a review of the representation of Caesar in Vergil's Aeneid and Ovid's Metamorphoses, we will proceed directly to the Pharsalia (now more commonly called the Bellum Civile), Lucan's dark epic of the bitter war Julius Caesar waged against Rome in his successful quest to topple republican government, seize power, and establish a personal dictatorship. In addition to the study of the epic genre, its development, and its history, students will scan dactylic hexameter, learn about ancient Rome, review Latin grammar, and write a seminar report based on the evidence that they gather from Lucan's text.

MER-303 Spaceflight Mechanics. A. Rapoff. The basics of getting into space, traveling about in space and returning to the Earth or landing on another celestial body will be studied in this course. Topics will include orbital motion and trajectories, interplanetary transfers, vehicle performance, atmospheric entry, ground tracking and attitude control. Prerequisite: MER-212.

MLT-255 Modern Japanese Literature and Film. J. Ueno. This course is an introduction to some of Japan's best-known authors and directors from the Meiji Restoration (1868) to the present day, focusing on how literature reflects and refracts the most dynamic and transformative periods in modern Japanese history. Intertwining the personal voice of literature with broader social, intellectual and ideological movements, we will consider how authors dealt with issues such as Japan's encounter with the West and rapid modernization, WWII and its aftermath, the growth of an affluent consumer culture, and the transnational dimensions of popular culture. Our readings will include classics such as Natsume Soseki's Kokoro and Kawabata Yasunari's Snow Country, but also the fantastic tales of Kurahashi Yumiko and Marukami Haruki to show how authors subvert conventional ways of thinking and set literary forms. In addition, the work of directors such as Akira Kurosawa, Yasujiro Ozu and Miyazaki Hayao will show how film engages issues of morality, the vicissitudes of personal and family relations, and critiques of contemporary society. And finally, the inquiry in this course will encourage self-reflection and cultural comparison in order to highlight some of our own cultural assumptions, biases and perhaps stereotypes that inevitably emerge when we study a different culture.

PSC-349 Seminar in Comparative Politics: Varieties of Capitalism. M. Dallas. Capitalism is currently the dominant economic system; however, it varies widely in different parts of the world. This course examines the many ways in which capitalism is embedded within social and political institutions, and across a wide range of national settings, looking both at history and contemporary issues. It also considers the equally diverse ways in which social thinkers conceptualized capitalism and markets, the history of development and industrialization, the varieties of capitalism in contemporary advanced industrialized countries, the Newly Industrializing Economies of Latin America and East Asia, the problems of development, and the transition of communism to market economies in Eastern Europe and China. No prior knowledge of economics is assumed.

PSY-213 Clinical Neuropsychology. C. Anderson-Hanley. This course will examine the relationship between brain function and behavior, especially the evaluation and treatment of individuals across the lifespan with cognitive deficits and brain compromise (e.g., due to injury, neurodevelopmental or degenerative processes, toxic exposure, etc.). The material is interdisciplinary, integrating across various sub-disciplines of medicine (e.g., neurology, psychiatry, radiology) and subfields of psychology (e.g. neuroscience, abnormal, assessment, cognitive, health). Clinical cases and research reports will be used to illustrate and characterize neuropsychological phenomena, conditions, and diagnoses. The course objectives will be accomplished through lecture, readings, and discussion as well as via experiential and service learning opportunities.

PSY-222 Judgement and Decision Making (Crossed with ECO-122). C. Chabris. An introduction to the scientific study of judgment and decision making featuring perspectives from cognitive psychology and behavioral economics. Students will learn major theoretical concepts and empirical results from the literature as well as how they apply to real-world issues. Students should also expect to improve their own ability to evaluate evidence and make rational well-informed decisions in their own lives. Prerequisites: PSY-100, PSY-210, or ECO-101.

SPN-351 Border Identities. V. Martinez. This course explores Chicano culture through essays, literature, and films that represent current and historical issues of the Mexican-American border. Readings will provide research and data, while literary texts and films will offer varying interpretations and representation of the border culture that will allow you to consider critically the complexities of 20th and 21st century issues that include immigration, working conditions, socio-economic status, the role of women, and identity. The course should also help you improve your proficiency in Spanish at all levels: building vocabulary, speaking, listening, reading, and writing. CC: HUL, LCCS.

SPN-407 Cultures in Contact (and Conflict). S. Mueller. What does it mean to be a national of a country? And who is included in that definition? By analyzing the specific case of Spain, in this course we will discover that the answers to these questions are complex and multiple. We will study literature, film, music, and television shows from three culturally and linguistically distinct regions of Spain: Galicia, Catalonia, and the Basque Country. In our analyses of these works we will discuss the key components of national identity, including language, traditions, geography, historical memory, political repression and violence, and gender. In the final unit we will explore how immigration and Spain's relationship to the European Union are challenging traditional definitions of the nation.
